Introduction

Katie Finrow's practice focuses on civil litigation, government investigations, and appeals. She has more than ten years of experience in a wide range of practice areas, including complex commercial litigation, securities litigation, real property disputes, corporate governance, environmental law, employment law, and white collar criminal matters. She has represented individuals as well as small businesses and national companies in both state and federal court.

Katie graduated with high honors from the University of Texas School of Law, where she was a member of the University of Texas Law Review and a member of Order of the Coif. She received her bachelor's degree from the University of Virginia in Economics.

Katie's pro bono work has included volunteering on the Northwest Justice Project's CLEAR hotline and at various family law clinics in the Seattle area.
